BRITISH NAVY IN READINESS FOR RUSSIAN BLOCKADE

HYTHE, England, Aug. 8.—The Bolshevik gov't. has refused the proposition contained in the British Government's last note to conclude a ten-day's truce with Poland. On receipt of this decision David Lloyd George, British Prime Minister, and M. Millerand, the French Premier, began to discuss the best means for immediately assisting Poland. The Conference was still in session at seven o'clock this evening and it was believed likely that it would continue through Monday. The belief prevails here that unless the Bolsheviks alter their apparent intention to take Warsaw the blockade against Russia will be re-imposed within forty eight hours. If it is decided to reimpose blockade of Russia blockade is to be made effective within few hours as far as the British navy is concerned, and upon the British navy will fall the bulk of work. A squadron of light cruisers and other light craft is in the Baltic ready at a moment's notice to begin intensive patrols while units in the Black Sea are more than enough to effectively blockade all ports. Force in Baltic is considered sufficient and Admiralty denies reports that another squadron will be ordered there immediately even should additional blockade work be decided on.

Forts Under Bombardment Permission To Lay Cable Refused

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Outer forts of Warsaw have been under bombardment since Friday morning says a wireless despatch received from Berlin to-day. The Poles are returning the Bolshevik fire.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 8.—Permission for British cableship Colonia to begin laying outside three mile limit proposed cable from Miami to Barbados, has been refused by British Embassy at Washington. The request of construction Co. was transmitted by H. Hubbard, British Vice-Consul here, who was directed in reply to hold Colonia at anchor until United States Government had decided as to issuing of permit for landing of cable on United States soil. The Colonia has aboard sixteen hundred miles of cable valued according to best Construction Company officials at five millions, and it was represented to Embassy that holding of vessel indefinitely was costly undertaking for both Construction Co. and Western Union Telegraph Co. for which cable was to have been laid.

Soviet operator declared that he was too busy to accept despatch. Prior to this refusal Polish Government received wireless despatch from Moscow expressing surprise that Polish peace delegation which returned from unsuccessful meeting last week at Baranovitch had not yet gone to Minsk. It added that Soviet Government was ready to negotiate peace and delay rested upon Polish Government.

Armaments Commission Denies Reports

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Denials of published reports concerning the work of the permanent armaments commissions of the League of Nations, with an explanation is contained in a statement just issued by the Bureau of the League. "Reports grossly misrepresenting the powers and purposes of the permanent armaments commission of the League of Nations have been published in certain papers," says the statement. "An effort seems to have been made to represent this body as invested with functions directly opposite to those actually entrusted to it. The whole object of the commission is to secure voluntary international agreement for the reduction of armaments throughout the world. It cannot be too strongly emphasized that the functions of this commission are those set down in a covenant and none other."

Polish Counter Attacks Successful

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Polish counter attacks against the Russian Bolsheviks have been successful, according to newspapers here. France and England, say the Matin, can, without furnishing troops, give assistance to Poland in her battle against the Soviet armies. The Czechoslovakian Minister to France declares in an interview printed to-day in the Excelsior that Czechoslovakia would consider intervention in Poland if the territorial integrity and sovereignty of that country should be threatened. He says his country considers the existence of an independent Poland necessary from the view point of European equilibrium.

The Polish Side of the Story

WARSAW, Aug. 7.—The Polish foreign office has sent the League of Nations a note presenting the Polish side of the peace and armistice controversy, and a proclamation, calculated to quiet the Polish people and asking them to support the government, will be issued by officials.

WHO WAS HANSARD?

What is "Hansard"? How many people could reply off-hand that it is the short title for "Hansard's Parliamentary Debates"? These are the official verbatim reports of Parliamentary proceedings.

They are prepared by a corps of shorthand writers, and so expeditiously that the printed reports are available soon after the House has risen.

The founder of the Hansard fortunes was Luke Hansard, Johnson's printer and Burke's friend, who secured the contract for printing Parliamentary Journals in 1774. It was Luke's son, Thomas Curson Hansard, however, who, in spite of a sentence of three years' imprisonment for seditious libel, brought the work to its present form.

Thomas Hansard worked under no greater an incentive than a subscription for 120 copies; but Hansard III. was more businesslike. He condensed the reports. This caused an outcry, and in view of the importance of the work a Government subsidy was granted and a corps of shorthand writers called into assist.

The debates are still printed in the same style and size of page as the original volumes, in order that uniformity may be preserved. Thus Hansard, who started life as a printer, ended as an Institution.—Tit-Bits.

BOLSHEVIK ARMIES ENCOUNTER STERN RESISTANCE FROM POLES

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Russian Bolshevik details of the outcome in late dis- vick armies hammering Polish lines patches in southern sectors of the northeast and east of Warsaw seem from the Poles seem to be gaining ground at some points. Premiers Lloyd George and Millerand will meet at Hythe to-morrow to discuss emergency plans. It seems certain there will be no immediate break in negotiations between the Allies and the great battle is being fought but the Soviet.

Is Captain Kidds Chest of Gold Near Halifax

HALIFAX, July 27.—Did Captain Kidd bury his stolen gold near Halifax? Thomas Garland, of Sydney, the story of whose attempt to unearth the treasure was published in Monday's Herald says "yes" and several Herald readers called at this office yesterday and stated that it was near Halifax that the gold was buried. "My grandfather always told me that Captain Kidd's money was buried around here somewhere," declared one man to the Herald. Others told similar stories and it is certain that, in years gone by, there was a definite tradition to that effect.

Opinion as to just where the gold was placed differs. Some hold that it was at McNabb's Island, while others believe that it was at some point along the North West Arm. About town yesterday there was much interested comment on The Herald's story of Thomas Garland's expedition and it was pretty generally conceded that "there might be something in it." In street-cars, barber shops, stores and hotels—one of the principal topics of conversation was Captain Kidd's treasure.

Garland, the Sydney man who says that he possesses a chart drawn by Captain Kidd, the famous buccaneer, himself, and given him by a son of the cabin-boy to whom Kidd gave the chart when he was to be hanged in England, seems to have taken fright at the expedition and left last night for the place indicated by the chart. Seen by a Herald reporter before leaving he would say little about the treasure-hunting trip.

"I don't want to say anything about it until I've come back," he said. "We don't want anybody to know where we are going and so that nothing will be known we will do all our digging at nighttime." Then he added, "I hope none of the men get scared. You know, Kidd killed a man and buried him about half foot above the chart. This was the custom which pirates used to employ to frighten away anybody who dug up the ground down to the skeleton. I'm not afraid myself, but can't speak for the others."

A citizen called at the Herald office last night and asked to be directed to Garland as he knew where the money was buried and wanted to see if it was the same place as indicated in Garland's map. This man said that that place of which he knew was about 18 miles from Halifax, near a swamp and not far distant from salt water. The exact spot is between two boulders he said. A few years ago a man built a house on this spot, using the rocks as a foundation. The first night he spent in the house and the second and third were nights of horror to him he declared; all night long chains kept rattling and moans filled the air. The man was so affected that he removed his house. The people in the neighbourhood assert that they have many times heard the same sounds.

The man who told The Herald this story declared that it had been his intention for a year to search the spot to see if any treasure was buried there. He says that he will now wait until Garland returns.

The storied treasure of the notorious Captain Kidd is sought for by others besides Thomas Garland, the Sydney man whose plan to locate the riches were told in The Herald yesterday. And the gold or diamonds or whatever the treasure is made up of is alleged to be in more than one place. Garland and his associates believe it is near Halifax, but Andrew B. Cullen, of Hailybury, the well-known mining district of Northern Ontario, has been engaged by a syndicate of New York and Montreal men to hunt for it way down in the Cocos Islands.

This is what J. L. d'Etremont, a Montreal broker, told a Herald man after he had read of Garland's plan and just as he was boarding yesterday's Maritime Express for the west. Cullen, stated Mr. d'Etremont, is well known in Ontario's mining regions and among mining brokers of Toronto and Montreal. He owns an instrument which he claims possesses the power to locate the presence of precious metal.

Declarations carried on by Mr. Cullen in the Cobalt and Gowanda silver areas, as well as in the Kirkland Lake gold district of Northern Ontario have been such as at least to arouse a moderate amount of curiosity and there are those among the prospecting fraternity who appear to believe that the instrument has some merit.

The owners of the instrument declare that it works on the principle that affinities attract each other and that by the proper use of a small piece of gold the instrument will point out the location of an ore deposit or hidden treasure containing gold. He likewise claims to be able to locate not only other precious metals but, by using a small piece of coal can detect the presence of hidden deposits of that valuable fuel.

A great deal of interest attaches to the experiment to be undertaken in connection with the tales of hidden millions at the hands of the pirates of old.

According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, "Captain Kidd's treasure has been sought by various expeditions and about £14,000 was recovered from Kidd's ship and from Gardiner's Island (off the east end of Long Island N.Y.); but its magnitude was palpably exaggerated."

Perhaps Captain Kidd's booty, of which so much has been said and written, will never be all recovered, probably if it exists in such enormous quantities (from the standpoint of value) it has not been hidden all

SANE, CONSIDERATE DRIVING.

MOTORISTS PLEASE GIVE ATTENTION.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of The Newfoundland Motor Association, held on Tuesday last, it was unanimously decided to publish the following extracts from the By-Laws of the Association with the idea of advocating sane and considerate driving of motor vehicles. Members of the Association (and other drivers) are respectfully asked to cut out this article until such time as they have familiarized themselves with the following By-Laws.

1. Members of the Association must use the following hand signals:—
If stopping, slowing down, or turning out of the road, right hand held out horizontally. If the drive is left hand, left hand held out.
2. Any motorist Member of the Association desiring to overtake or pass a car must blow his horn two blasts, and the driver of the car ahead shall signal that he has heard the horn by answering two blasts. If the car ahead cannot keep ahead of the overtaking car, the driver should allow the overtaking car to pass, and the overtaking car must immediately get far enough ahead to prevent the occupant of the car passed from getting the dust.
3. A Member of the Association must help any other member whose car is on the road and in trouble.
5. Cars meeting must keep as close to the left side of the road as possible and slow down.
6. A signal of three blasts will mean that the person blowing is under the impression that the other party has offended some rule.
7. The horn must be blown at every blind corner and the car must be under close control. A car is under close control when it can be stopped within 10 feet. At sharp curves the horn must be blown.
8. When two cars meet on a hill going in opposite directions, the car going up the hill has the right of way.
9. These By-Laws apply to motor cycles as well as motor cars.
10. Members should report breaches of the rules and inconsiderate or reckless driving to the Committee on Discipline.

CROWDS IN LARGE POLITICAL DEMONSTRATION HELD IN GERMANY

This picture shows a large crowd of German civilians and soldiers showing their way toward the speakers' stand during a recent political demonstration held in Urtenburg Plaza in connection with the acceptance of the Spa conference terms.

NFLD. CONGRESS AT ST. JOHN'S

For over a week special announcements appeared in the daily press of the coming Congress. Friday and Saturday every train and boat brought officers from the different corps. A great united parade preceded the welcome demonstration in the No. 1 Citadel on Saturday night. After the opening service, the Chancellor, Staff Capt. Thompson, introduced Colonel and Mrs. Martin to the delegates as Newfoundland's first Territorial Leaders, making special mention that the Colonel had spent 22 years as a Salvation Army Officer and that Mrs. Martin had six years added to that, making 38 years' service. The Staff Captain made reference to a little incident in the life of "Bert," the son of Colonel and Mrs. Martin, who though English born, after living so long in foreign countries when he went back to England couldn't speak the English language. This brought out the cosmopolitan character of our new Territorial Leaders. Colonel then stepped forward and was heartily greeted. After speaking for himself for some considerable time, he completed the introduction of Mrs. Martin, and told a very interesting story of how her father, being a preacher, had the joy of pointing to God our present Chief of the Staff. He then called forward his son, and with Mrs. Martin they sang a chorus "I'm going there some day." This finished, the Colonel made reference to our visitors, viz. Adj. Hurd of Canada, an old Newfoundland officer who is here on furlough; also Capt. and Mrs. Skotness who are here waiting for a boat to sail for England. Mrs. Skotness is a Newfoundland officer but the Captain is a Norwegian and they are appointed to South Africa. Mrs. Colonel Martin then read the Bible Lesson and spoke some very encouraging words of welcome to the delegates. Representative speakers then followed. First Adj. Cole, of Carbonear, then our old warrior comrade Adj. Downey, of Catalina, Mrs. Adj. Oke, of Fortune, Ensign Abbott, of Triton, Lieut. Winsor, of Giquet and Lieut. Shute, of Hr. Grace. Adjutant Hurd represented the many Newfoundland officers in the Canadian field, and his old friends were glad to see him. The Colonel then, after a few words of exhortation brought the first meeting of the Congress to a close.

Sunday at 7 a.m. found a splendid sprinkling of comrades to the kneedrills at the different corps. Then at 10.30 a.m. No. 11. and III. bands and corps, with specially appointed officers, conducted an open-air meeting at Beck's Cove, then marched west in Water Street and picked up the No. 1 band at Steer's Cove and the whole joined in one parade to the No. 1 Citadel for the united business service conducted by the Territorial Commanders. The Colonel lined out that old familiar song "Boundless Salvation" and it was a great inspiration to hear such singing. Adj. Simmonds prayed, also Mrs. Colonel Martin and the Colonel. The Chancellor gave out the second song, after which the Colonel gave a Bible reading and the comments on the same were exceedingly rich and a great blessing to all. It was indeed a foretaste of what was in store later on. Several speakers were then introduced. Mrs. Commandant Strickland of Bell Island gave a very definite testimony of the blessing of full salvation. She also referred to the illness of the Commandant who was prevented from coming to the Congress. We miss his familiar face, pray that God will speedily heal him. Ensign Roberts, of Lush's Bight, was then called upon. He referred very kindly to the welcome received from the Territorial Commander and Mrs. Martin, and with no reserve he spoke out of a full heart what God can do for people who will be led by Him, and of his own experience of full salvation. Captain Skotness gave a splendid talk on his experience before and since joining the Salvation Army. It was interesting for the Newfoundland officers because of the little tinge of another tongue which was detected in the Captain's speech. The Colonel then took hold and very feelingly got the whole audience to sing "At Thy Feet I Fall," and we believe many consecrated themselves afresh for service. Surely the message given by the Colonel will long live in us.

A report of the afternoon's proceedings appears elsewhere. At night the gathering again filled the hall to capacity and Colonel Martin gave another interesting address. He was assisted by Staff Captain and Mrs. Thompson with about 30 officers who are gathered here for the Congress. The united Army bands attended and rendered several selections during the meeting.

COMPARATIVE PRICES

Your clothing, shoes, furniture, bedding, floor covering, coal, and the belongings of your wife and children; what did they cost five years ago? And how much more to-day? COL. MARTIN'S LECTURE

The spacious hall of the Methodist College was filled to overflowing on Sunday afternoon. After hymn and prayer Sister Mabel Harter pleasingly rendered a sacred solo. His Excellency's address was listened to with interest, and its appeal for good citizenship was timely. The lecture by Colonel Thomas Martin followed. His subject was "Impressions gathered in Germany during nine years of Salvation Army officership. Causes of the War and Germany's Ruin." The Colonel spoke earnestly and vigorously; he knew his subject and discussed it in a manner at once interesting and helpful. Despite the heat, and the crowded room he was listened to with eager attention from start to finish. It was "no hymn of hate," but nought was extenuated, nought set down in malice. The militarists, rather than the people were responsible. For Prussianism he had nothing but unqualified detestation. The three causes of the war he attributed to: (1) Militarism, with which the Fatherland had been saturated since the Franco-Prussian War; (2) the writings of professors of the Nietzsche type and soldiers of the Von Bernhardi class, which formed text books in the colleges and universities, and above all, (3) the decay of vital religion which has during recent decades transformed Germany from a Christian to an almost pagan land. Throughout his address ran a spirit of optimism, a grateful tonic in these days of disappointment and disillusion. "God's in his Heaven, all's well with the world" was the golden thread whose gleam was never lost. His lecture instructed, his patriotism thrilled and his Christian confidence inspired. As the Colonel is resident here, even though in labours abundant, if he could find time to deliver the same or similar address in every outpost which he may visit, he would accomplish great and lasting good.

At the close a vote of thanks to His Excellency and the Colonel was proposed by Mr. J. W. Withers and seconded by Mr. Isaac C. Morris. The Salvation Army Band was in splendid form, and rendered notable service. On the platform were Hon. John Anderson, Hon. Samuel Bell, John Steer, Esq., J. W. Withers, Esq., L. C. Morris, Esq. His Excellency was accompanied by Capt. Saltmarsh. The preliminary and closing exercises were conducted by Staff Captain Thompson, the S. A. Territorial Chancellor.

Madeline Constance, molasses laden from Barbados, reached port last night.

BORDEN'S PURITY BRAND CONDENSED MILK

More Delicious Cakes

There's a new touch of richness in your layer cakes when you use Purity Brand, "the milk that saves the sugar," for you put into the cake the delicate flavor that comes from bubbling milk and sugar together in the original Borden way. It's this process that makes Purity Brand so creamy and delicious when put into the batter.

But Purity Brand introduces more than a new flavor—it gives a new economy as well. It costs less, goes further and has many uses.

OBITUARY

MR. ALPHEUS WELLS

Phoebe, beloved wife of Mr. Alpheus Wells of Change Islands, passed peacefully away at the Hospital, St. Anthony, on July 17th. Mrs. Wells was confined to her bed for two or three months; a few days previous to her death she was taken by her husband to St. Anthony for surgical treatment, where she was well cared for and was treated by three skillful doctors, two nurses and extra aid in the operating room. Notwithstanding all the pains taken and skill used, it resulted in death. Her body was sent home by the Sagona and conveyed to the Methodist Cemetery here. She leaves to mourn her a husband and one little daughter. Her coffin was nicely decorated with wreaths given by kind friends. She was a loving wife and a devoted mother. In her there passed from our midst a good and noble woman; now resting in God's acre, and her many friends are looking forward to that glorious reunion in the Great Beyond, where father, sister, child and mother meet once more.

Now the labourer's task is o'er,
Now the battle day is past;
Now upon the farther shore
Lands the voyager at last.

Father in Thy gracious keeping
Leave we now Thy servant sleeping.

Making it Worth While

In certain sections of the City press an attempt is being made to discredit the Government in the eyes of the teachers and the country, in its efforts to improve our Educational conditions as evidenced by the Education Bill passed at the last session of the Legislature. Just recently this criticism has been directed towards the subject of teachers' salaries. Undoubtedly in this subject of teachers' salaries the Government and the country are confronted with a problem that requires their serious consideration and attention. A glance at the annual reports of the Superintendents of Education for the past year or so will show that the number of teachers withdrawing from the profession annually is increasing at an alarming rate, while the applications for entry are growing fewer every year. We have now reached a position where many schools are closed the whole year round because teachers are not available. The same thing applies in Canada and the United States. Thousands of schools are closed for want of teachers, and teachers are not forthcoming because of the scant remuneration the profession offers. Many school Boards to-day find themselves in the position that it is not so much a question of what kind of a teacher they ought to procure, so much as whether they can procure any teacher at all.

And this position bids fair to be multiplied by the hundreds as the years go by. Young men and young women of education, brains and intelligence are not going to enter a profession that so poorly remunerates its servants. The duties are arduous, the responsibilities high. With the spread of industry and the development of trade and commerce, better opportunities are continually presenting themselves to the brightest of our youth. The chances of rapid advance are better, the duties not so arduous, the responsibilities light, and in every case the pay is immeasurably higher than what the teaching profession offers. Many who enter the profession abandon it in disgust. There is absolutely no encouragement to teachers to improve their education and their status. The consequence is they either abandon the profession entirely or sink into a state of a lethargic, monotonous discharge of their duties. The result in either case is disastrous to the children and to the country. We have always the evil of a transient profession, spelling, as it does, inexperience and inaptitude, and the best men and women are lost to the profession.

Unless something is done in the near future to put the salaries of teachers on a basis compatible with the dignity, responsibility and demands of their profession, we shall have the spectacle of our schools being closed by the score for want of teachers. We are not exaggerating the position.

The Liberal Reform Government has taken cognizance of this position, and is giving serious consideration to the problem. Already a move has been made and this year the largest increase ever made in the augmentation grant was voted. This increase was made retroactive from January 1st, 1920, and the announcement was received by the Teachers' Convention with enthusiastic cheers for the Hon. Dr. Barnes and the Government. The teachers know that in the Liberal Reform Government they have a Government ever ready to give the cause of education a warm hearing, and that in the Hon. Dr. Barnes they have a worthy advocate of their cause. They have gone back to their schools reassured that their interests are being conserved and attended to. Much remains to be done, and the Government will no doubt do all in its power to make the teaching profession a worth while life-work for those of our young men and women who desire to enter it as such.

Regulations A Success

PORTUGAL

Sales are now being made for new fish at the price fixed by the Fishery Department. One firm here begged Mr. Coaker for permission to sell at 65¢ last Tuesday, which of course was refused. To-day the same firm has received a clearance for the same cargo at 75¢, the price fixed by the Regulations. The remaining cargoes of old fish in Portugal and enroute have been sold at 60¢. The fish dealers of Portugal have now found that the Regulations will be strictly and severely carried out and no clearances given, except for outright sales at Regulation price, and in spite of certain endeavours of certain brokers at London, who set out to destroy the Regulations, dealers are prepared to abide by the Regulations.

A message to Mr. Coaker from Dr. Harris, brother of Mr. George Harris of Grand Bank, received recently from Lisbon, shows the effects Mr. Coaker's firmness has had upon the market. Mr. Harris cables as follows:—

"With regard to Batson's telegram if you hold outright sales before sailing there is no doubt as to the result."—HARRIS.

As regards the efforts made to improve the cure, Messrs. J. J. Langley of Liverpool writes as follows:—

Bank Chambers,
Cook Street,
Liverpool,*
20th July, 1920.

Hon. W. F. Coaker,
St. John's.

Dear Sir,—I have just read your instructions for the raising and standardization of fish quality.

One cannot read those instructions without feeling that the man who wrote them understands absolutely what is required.

I congratulate you and if you succeed, and I feel that you will, you will have done more good for Newfoundland than any living man.

Yours truly,
C. G. LANGLEY.

We congratulate the Government, the Trade and the Hon. W. F. Coaker upon the splendid success of the Regulations. There is no doubt about the results, seeing the Regulations have become effective this season with the first shipment of fish. We trust the system of outright sales, which prevailed in Italy and Portugal since the new Minister took charge of the Fishery Department will be extended to Spain, for according to Account Sales received from Spain no other course is

PROSPERO'S PASSENGERS

The Prospero arrived from the northward at 11 a.m. today. The fishery conditions have not improved and looks as if from here to Bell Isle and the Straits the average will not be half last year's catch. At the Grey Islands there is plenty of fish. The following passengers arrived by the Prospero: Messrs. Rd. Bishop, Davidson, Field, Clouston, Biles, Hunt, Snow, Winsor, Mursell, Parsons, Lawton, Essau, Anthony, Clare and Hobbs. A Change of Figure Suggested

At the great Memorial Service in Toronto, for the late Admiral of the Fleet, Lord Fisher, O.M., the Rev. Dr. Alfred Hall, Senior Chaplain to the Royal Naval and Merchant Marine Institutes of Canada, suggested the alteration of one of the well-known hymns. He pointed out that considerable objection had been urged, since the war, to the use of the verse "Like a mighty army, Moves the Church of God."

It was felt that the great military machine of German devastation could not suggest anything for which the church stands. But the work of our Navy had been a benefaction to all mankind; securing, under God, the overthrow of injustice and tyranny. He proposed to change the figure from a military to a naval one, to read:— "Like the naval squadrons, Move the Church's hosts, Keeping watch and vigil, Throughout all our coasts; Ready aye for action, 'Gainst the powers of sin, Keen, with utmost daring, That the right may win."

Brightly gleams our ensign, White, with cross of red: Leading on to victory, Under Christ our Head."

"Heavy Civil War" in Britain and U.S. Is Bolshevik Proposal

LONDON, July 31.—The Independent Labor party recently addressed certain questions respecting policy to the Third Internationale of Moscow, and have received a long reply, which throws a lurid light on Bolshevik militaristic designs.

A great amount of virulence is directed against leaders of Second Internationale, particularly Ramsay MacDonald and Philip Snowden. Their offence is that they do not foment revolution and sedition. "They persuade the workers that Socialism can only be obtained by constitutional means. They carry on no kind of agitation among British soldiers and sailors."

George Lansbury, the Christian revolutionist, who believes in the possibility of a bloodless revolution in Britain, is informed, "whoever tells the British workers they can overthrow the capitalist dictatorship in the British Empire through any other means than the organization of a Red Labor army deceives himself and others. No election success frees Communists from their duty of saying to the workers that they must prepare, not for easy parliamentary victories, but for a victory by heavy civil war."

Then follows a vision of Communism sweeping through Europe and Asia to engage British and America in mortal conflict in a world war. "It is then possible that the revolutionary proletariat of Europe will arise, in union with the peoples of the East, and commence a revolutionary struggle, the scene of which will be the entire world, to deal a final blow to American and British capitalists."

Ramsay MacDonald, commenting on Moscow's reply, says the Russian leaders are no fireside revolutionaries. When they say revolution, they mean bloodshed and violence. The Independent Labor party and Third Internationale are oil and water, and will not mix. He adds: "Are we to agree that the seizure of power by a few leaders is to be the Socialist method. We may dress up that bald issue as we like, but it is upon that we have to decide now that Moscow has officially spoken."

Make Ready to Face The Coming Storm!

By F. A. MCKENZIE,
Famous Canadian Writer.

LONDON.—A two-pound tin of peaches, that cost 3s. 6d. three months ago, can be had today for 1s. 6d. Imported meat is being offered in some back streets of London for as little as 4d. per pound.

Georgette gowns, deemed bargains six months ago at fifteen guineas are now priced in the sales at a five pound note. You can obtain a better pair of nail scissors for half a crown to-day than you could for 5s. last autumn.

This has been London's "sales." For four years the July sales were mere pretences, because the shopkeepers had not enough goods to supply the ordinary demand.

This year the July sales have been full of real bargains. The tradesmen have been for weeks contemplating full shelves and few purchasers. They must attract customers at any cost. Four months ago if we wished for a window to be mended, a carpet repaired, or an electric light fitting altered, tradesmen would indifferently promise to send a man around as soon as he could. He was full up for some time ahead. Today he is seeking orders.

Six months ago the West End courtiere let her customers feel that she was really doing them a favor by taking their commands. The steeper the prices, the more regal her air.

These are signs of the times. Production has caught up with demand, and the world has recovered from its hour of extravagant madness.

The end of the war found more money to spend than ever before. Four million demobilized soldiers, with their gratuities and deferred pay came into the field. They felt they had the right to spend freely. To-day the gratuities and the deferred pay have gone.

We are witnessing the same process in trade that some of us have seen in the land "booms" of the west, where for a reason everybody seemed to be rich and nothing was too dear. But "booms" are always followed by "slumps." The "slump" is now almost on us.

How far is this fall likely to go? Is living really to be cheaper? There is very little hope of decline in certain great essentials of life. The world is eating more wheat than ever, and the wheat crop will be short. Hence dearer bread.

The spread of prohibition among the English-speaking peoples has enormously increased the demand for sugar, and the sugar crop is limited, so until fresh sources of supply can be cultivated, sugar will remain a costly luxury. This means dearer jam.

Great increases in miners' wages make cheap coal to-day an economic impossibility. Therefore, travelling will become dearer, and all manufacturing will cost more.

On the other hand, the prices of foodstuffs generally, apart from bread and sugar, tend to decline. Everything from the Far East, such as tea, spices, etc., is falling, this fall being due to over-speculation and the collapse in the value of silver.

Imported meat—although not of the first quality—is becoming very cheap. The grocers' shops are flooded with enormous stocks of tinned goods, fruits, meats, etc., which they cannot get rid of. Some prices have gone down to a half and even less within a few weeks.

The continued improvement of the American exchange is benefiting the buyer. Not long ago our £ was only worth 13s. 6d. for exchange purposes with America. To-day it is worth over 16s. Very soon it will be worth 18s. 6d.

Now we buy more from America than from any other country—cotton, hides and raw material of every kind. The betterment of the American exchange and the fall of the price of silver are already putting money in the pockets of every householder in Great Britain.

Women's clothing is already declining in price. Chinese and Japanese silks are, or soon will be, greatly down. From silk stockings to fine straw hats the careful woman can cut her outlay by 30 per cent.

CALGARY, Aug. 2.—Believed to have been insane with drink, J. G. Watterson, a well known resident of Pincher Creek, shot and killed his wife in the Kirkham Block, Lethbridge, Saturday afternoon and then turned the gun on himself, committing suicide. Two children are left.

If promptness, courtesy, first-class work and right prices will get your trade then we are in line for it. Union Publishing Company, Ltd.

A Boon to the Empire.

Sir H. Greenwood on His Work.

(London Times.)
Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Hamar Greenwood, M.P., Chief Secretary for Ireland, was the principal guest at a dinner given by the Canada Club last evening at the Savoy Hotel.

Sir Campbell Stuart presided, and among the greatest pleasure in proposing to-night the health of the most important Canadian in official life in this country, in the person of our distinguished guest. I am sure in the course of a great public career, destined, as we all believe, to be still greater, Sir Hamar Greenwood will be the recipient of many banquets in his honour, and will listen to many speeches delivered in praise of him, but if I know human nature at all, I venture to say that no occasion in his life will bring him more personal satisfaction and greater individual happiness than this particular event, when the people of the country in which he was born have gathered together through the medium of their most representative institution in the Motherland—the Canada Club—to do him honour, to congratulate him as a Canadian in occupying one of the most important offices in the world.

(Cheers.)
The duties of the Chief Secretaryship are, at the present time, onerous and responsible in the extreme. There is no great position in the gift of the Crown where discouragements are so plentiful and in which success is so difficult of attainment. The Chief Secretary is a convenient and traditional target for the execration of a large number of those for whom it is his first duty to labour; and he can never entirely count on conscientious performance bringing the reward of Irish appreciation. His very office is under the ban of extinction; and it would almost seem that the first qualification for its holder should be proficiency in the art of dignified self-destruction. (Laughter.) In such circumstances the man who, conscious of its many difficulties, and possible thanklessness, accepts the post of Chief Secretary, is indeed a patriot. But those who knew our guest realize that patriotism and courage are not the only qualities which he has taken to Ireland. And therefore, with a real measure of confidence, we can wish him success where so many others have failed.

The future that lies before him is clouded; but perhaps it is peculiarly possible for Canadians to regard it without hopelessness. In Canada we have seen difficulties, to our minds as formidable as those which confront Sir Hamar Greenwood, resolve under the miraculous action of wise institutions of self-government. Consequently it is only natural that when we recognize evil symptoms, not unlike those we have known, we should wonder whether they may not be susceptible to the cure which we ourselves have found efficacious. I do not propose to dwell here on a political issue so provocative of dissension. I have my own views upon it. But this I may say, that to every Canadian, whatever his personal opinion upon the question, it must be a matter of satisfaction that, whether or not the Canadian analogy is relevant, the man who is charged with this great problem has a close knowledge of Canadian institutions and can apply to its consideration the experience which Canada has gained.

And further, I do not think that I am encroaching on disputed ground if I say that, as Canadians, we realize the immensity of the boon which an Irish settlement must confer upon this Empire. It could be scarcely measured. Yet, earnestly though we all hope for such consummation, it is not only the Empire that is in our minds. I believe that all of us cover the blessings of peace and contentment for Ireland herself. To one who, like myself, was privileged during the war to undertake a mission in Ireland, and received from Irishmen of all creeds, classes, and politics, not merely the courteous welcome of a kindly people, but true sympathy and active assistance, it is difficult indeed not to believe that, beyond the misunderstandings and bitterness of the present, there lies a future in which all Irishmen will join in contributing the indispensable aid of their country to the strength and unity of the Imperial Commonwealth. (Cheers.)

"I Like Ireland"

Sir Hamar Greenwood, in reply.

said:—Sir Campbell Stuart has attained at an early age probably the highest private position of any Canadian outside the Dominion. His influence is all for the unity of the Empire and the closer union of the English-speaking peoples. Like many men in the great movement of to-day, he declines to be labelled by any pre-war political label. I have found him independent in thought and courageous in action. He is a Canadian and proud of it, and his private, business and public life maintains that high standard of character and strength that makes him an asset of Canada and a factor for good in our Empire's affairs. (Cheers.)

One day in the first week of April of this year the Prime Minister called me into his room at the House of Commons just after question time, and said in his own decisive way, "Hamar, I want you and Lady Greenwood to go to Ireland," and that's how I became Chief Secretary and a Cabinet Minister.

All political parties in Great Britain are agreed that some form of Home Rule should be granted to Ireland. The same political parties are against the setting up of a Republican Ireland. These are fundamental facts that define and limit the possible area of fruitful discussion in reference to Ireland. No phrasemaking, no threats, no violence, no murder will affect the decision of the Government and the people of Great Britain that an Irish Republic will not be set up. The Government's Home Rule Bill has this merit—it is the only Bill before the country and it is capable of amendment to meet any need of a united Ireland.

I like Ireland. I like the Irish people. They are strong in their religious and strong in their political views, but when Protestant and Roman Catholic do meet together, as they do in many organizations in their country, they work well together. One of the tragedies of that country is not the fact that there are two religions, but the fact that the leaders of these religions seldom meet together. I believe the vast majority of the Irish people hate and loathe the campaign of terror and murder now carried on in certain parts of their country. (Cheers.) This campaign casts an undesired stigma upon a great race, and until it is ended the industrial, commercial and political future of Ireland will grow darker and darker.

Religious Differences

There never was a time in history when an Irish Executive, a British Cabinet, and a House of Commons were more united in their desire to settle the Irish question than they are to-day. I believe the majority of the Irish people would welcome a settlement that keeps Ireland within the Empire. I decline, therefore, to take a pessimistic view of Ireland's future. We are passing through a hard, difficult and, in places, bitter period in that country's history. The real bar to progress and to peace is the campaign of violence. This must be put down, and will be put down, no matter how long it takes or what it costs. My appeal is to the Irish people to help put down this campaign in the interests of Ireland. (Cheers.) They could not regard the position of Ireland as hopeless when they remembered the early struggles of Canada. If they could only look the Irish leaders in a room, they could settle the Irish question. He would never be a party to persecute or condemn a man because of his creed. Under the British Constitution the question of a man's creed was not a factor, and he hoped the spirit of toleration would grow so strong in Ireland that a man's religion would be regarded as a matter for himself alone and for no one else. The worst of it was that in Ireland a child was not born a boy or a girl but a Roman Catholic or a Protestant, and he only wished he could get the heads of the Churches together in order that they might come, as he felt sure they would, to an amicable agreement. (Cheers.)

The health of the other guests was proposed by Sir George Parkin, and responded to by the Archbishop of Nova Scotia and Mr. Justice Duff.

Mr. Donald MacMaster, K.C., M.P., in proposing the health of the chairman, said that Sir Campbell Stuart had an ancestry of which any man might well be proud. He came from a family of great lawyers and claimed a Chief Justice on each side of his family. It was Sir James Stuart who drafted the Act by which the two Canada's were united. Although still a young man, their chairman had possessed qualities which would lead him to even greater success. They all wished him a future worthy of his distinguished progenitors.

Could Not Sleep

Mr. Earnest Clark, Police Officer, 338 King St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"For three years I suffered from nervousness and sleeplessness. I believe my condition was brought about by overwork. I had frequent headaches, neuralgic pains and twitching of nerves and muscles. I had indigestion, was short of breath and easily tired. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and seven boxes of this medicine cured me of all my symptoms. I am now feeling one hundred per cent. better than I was, and have to thank Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for the good health I am now enjoying."

Gerald S. Doyle,
Water St., St. John's,
Distributing Agent.

The Chairman, in responding, referred to the good work of Mr. J. G. Colmer, hon. secretary of the Canadian Club, and said that their guest was to be congratulated on the aid

WEDDING BELLS

MUNN-BERTEAU

The marriage took place at St. Thomas's Church on Saturday afternoon, of Mr. Errol Munn, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Munn and Miss Dorothy Berteau, the second daughter of Mr. F. C. Berteau, I.S.O. (the Auditor General of the Dominion) and Mrs. Berteau.

The bride who is one of our very pretty girls, looked charming in a dress of soft white satin trimmed with lace and the train hanging from the shoulders. The veil was studded with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a beautiful shower of white sweet peas and she looked superb leaning on the arm of her father who gave her away most regretfully. Her sister, Mrs. Hartnett, was the matron of honor, and Miss Angel was the bridesmaid, and both looked charming, gowned in rose pink and mauve tulle. They carried shepherd crooks and bouquets of mauve and pink sweet peas. The bride's two little nieces and nephew did the honors of train bearers and flower girl. The bridegroom was supported by Mr. Max Shears and the ushers were Mr. Harold Mitchell, Mr. T. Hartnett and Mr. Lionel Munn. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Captain Clayton, of St. Thomas's Church.

A reception was held at Mr. Berteau's beautiful residence, "Sunny Bank." The lawn and grounds were nicely decorated with flags and banners. There were many guests present including friends from Toronto, New York and California. Telegrams of congratulations were received from Montreal, New York, Quebec, Annapolis, Labrador and British Columbia.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents. Many happy speeches and toasts were given to the bride who is a general favorite with everyone. The bridegroom received many complimentary references from his war chums who served with him in Gallipoli and Flanders. The sun shone in all its glory and the weather was ideal. The bridegroom motored off with his charming wife about 6 o'clock amidst a shower of confetti and rice and carried many souvenirs attached to the car that bring good luck to these happy events, but more than all they take with them the best wishes of a legion of friends for a long and happy wedded life.

Wants Everyone Who Suffers With Stomach Trouble To Know What Tanlac Did For Him.

"If I could speak with everybody personally who has stomach trouble, I would tell them to take Tanlac, for I have tried it myself and have never found anything to equal it," recently declared Simon Pike of Old Perlican, Trinity Bay, who is at present in the oil refining business in St. John's.

"I certainly was in mighty bad shape before I started on Tanlac. I had awful pains in the pit of my stomach after eating, they fairly doubled me up. Even a bit of bread and gravy would hurt me this way and so much gas formed in my stomach that it nearly made my heart stop beating; and at times I became awful dizzy-headed. I suffered a great deal from constipation and often had bad bilious attacks. I got so weak and rundown I couldn't do above half a man's work and my sleep at night was so broken with dreams that I always got up in the mornings feeling tired and good for nothing. I must have taken enough medicine of various kinds to fill a hogshead, but it never did me any good."

"One of the men down at the oil factory told me about Tanlac and how it was helping folks with just such troubles as mine, and so I sent along to Connors' drug store and got a couple of bottles. Well, the way it got after my troubles was surprising. Within a week it relieved me of the indigestion and I can now eat three good meals a day and enjoy a 'mug-up' between meals as well, and never suffer in the least from pains in the stomach or gas. I'm not bothered with dizziness or biliousness any more and am so much stronger I can do a day's work with any man and never get tired. Believe me, Tanlac is a great medicine and there's nothing like it for such troubles as I had."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; in Gull Island by L. Stockwood & Son; in English Harbor by Jeremiah Pettit; in Bonaville by W. H. House; in Little Bay Island by Edgar D. Jones; in Cape Broyle by J. J. O'Brien; in Keshel by John Murphy; in Gander Bay by A. A. Comer; and in Hant's Harbor by John Green.

VISITING ARCHBISHOP
AT ST. PATRICK'S

His Grace Archbishop Kouri, now visiting the Syrian people of this city, celebrated last Mass at St. Patrick's Church at 10.30 a.m. yesterday. A large congregation attended and the Mass was celebrated according to the Maronite rite, the ritual being most impressive. His Grace was assisted at the altar by Rev. Fr. Savin of Sydney, who officiated as High Priest and Master of Ceremonies. The large number of Syrian people present as well as citizens of the West End devoutly assisted at the sacred ceremony, after the conclusion of which His Grace knelt in prayer at the foot of the high altar until the people had left the Church.

MELEE IN WEST END

Guns Reported To Have Been Used. Some of the coolie members of the crew of the S. S. Wabana, now on the dry dock, alleged that while returning to their ship late Saturday night they were attacked by some city residents near the foot of Hutchings' Street, on Water Street. They further alleged that walking sticks and rain coats which they carried were forcibly taken from them and some citizens who were taking a rest on the seats set along the promenade aver that some revolver shots were fired and when the police arrived they reported what they had heard. The police went on board the ship, saw and searched those of the crew who had been ashore, but found no guns amongst their belongings. Several of those who were engaged in the scrap are known and they will be interrogated by the authorities as to what occurred.

OBITUARY

SAMUEL CHAFE.

Mr. Samuel Chafe, well and favorably known in the city, died suddenly at his mother's residence, Colonial Street, at 11 a.m. yesterday. "Sam," as he was familiarly called, worked with Gaden's Aerated Water Co. almost since its inception, and for many years was in charge of the company's city delivery. Of a most kindly and obliging temperament he at all times satisfied the customer alike with his employers, never failing in the dual performance. Mr. Chafe enjoyed apparently good health up to Saturday last, on which day he was at work, and his passing will be learned with deep regret by his hosts of friends.

Shoemen Laid Off

The men working in the Boot and Shoe Factory and also at Parker and Monroes are now laid off and will have holidays for several weeks. Some of the men in speaking to the Advocate to-day say that Canadian competition is cutting into the local trade and that, owing to this the season's period of idleness will be prolonged this year.

Shouldn't Use It

Pedestrians who pass that way and drivers of horses who live in that section, say that Blackmarsh Road is altogether too narrow a thoroughfare for motor cars to be driven over. Two cars cannot pass there and if the road is to be used by motor vehicles a dangerous accident is bound to occur. It would be well for the Motor Association and others interested to take the matter up.
